This mission is achieved through the research, mentoring and professional training of pre and postdoctoral students, graduate students, and postdoctoral trainees. The CCOH has three goals for the upcoming funding cycle: 1) to enhance the oral health of children by continuing to identify innovative solutions to current problems in prevention and treatment of children's oral diseases and to translate these solutions into better interventions and outcomes; 2) to improve and expand the research infrastructure that supports the CCOH by increasing the number of successful grant applications to external sources of funding, including NIDR/NIDCR, the Office of Research Support, the NIH, and competitive award solicitations; and 3) to encourage, develop, and mentor more pre and postdoctoral trainees so that we may continue to attract a cadre of future leaders in the field of pediatric and preventive dental research. The CCOH has four academic institutions participating in this application: The Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, the Schools of Dental Medicine and Medicine at The Johns Hopkins University, The School of Medicine at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, and The School of Medicine at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The CCOH is administered by the Director, the Co-Director, and
