The tool converts HTML formatted web pages into MSXML 4.0 structured XML documents. The HTML to XML conversion process is fast and efficient. All images, content, and links on your HTML formatted web pages are converted to their own separate XML elements. Images are first converted to their separate image elements, and then the text and style information is stored in the image's XML element. Similarly, links are first converted to their own separate link elements and then the hypertext content is stored in the link's XML element. All text in a web page is converted to its own separate text XML element and all the tags from the text content are preserved. Even the elements that have a text content of the form blah are preserved, with the rest of the tag removed. Finally, all HTML tags are preserved, including , , and tags. HTMLToXml allows you to convert HTML formatted web pages into XML formatted web pages. All of your HTML pages can be processed in an automated manner. In addition, it provides a way to view the results of the conversion so you can inspect the output before it is delivered to your web server. This allows you to check that your HTML formatting has been preserved. HTMLToXml is web-based so you can convert HTML pages from any computer or web browser. Gsitemap is a lightweight Windows application whose purpose is to help you generate XML Google sitemaps from configuration files. It allows you to optimize your website and make it appear in the Google search index. Clean feature lineup You are welcomed by a well-organized suite of features. A help manual is not included in the package so you need to experiment a little bit with the dedicated parameters in order to understand how the program works. You may also rely on tooltips for viewing short descriptions about the utility's functions. Thanks to its multi-tabbed environment, you can easily monitor URLs, URL lists, directories, access logs, and sitemap data. Key features Gsitemap offers you the possibility to import, edit, and save XML sitemap configuration files. Plus, it gives you the freedom to load, alter, and export XML Google sitemap files. The application is able to load and save compressed XML files (ZIP file format) and lets you add a list with URLs from plain text items. You may add directories, access logs, as well as a single URL and set optional attributes like last modified date, changing frequency, and priority. Other notable configuration settings worth being mentioned enable you to make use of an integrated website spider tool for generating URL lists (while allowing you to set thread priorities), automatically notify Google about a sitemap update, and set the date/time format. Gsitemap allows you to generate tags for last modified items, changed frequency, and priority, and set the default parameters for each of the aforementioned options. You may upload XML sitemap via FTP connections by providing information about the server, username, password, and path to file. The application is not a resource hog so you do not have to worry that it hampers the overall performance of your computer. Final verdict To sum things up, Gsitemap comes packed with several smart and straightforward features, and provides a straightforward way for helping webmasters and website owners to create, modify, and submit sitemap information.Q: How to install xlsxwriter with pip I am using python 2.7 on a Windows 8 machine.
