What is the difference between IIS and HTTPD Or do IIS support other things not listed here. A: Assuming, you are talking about httpd.exe and it should be run on the web server, it serves web pages. This executable is located in the bin folder of the IIS installation. It has several parameters: run - this activates the web server and runs the config script. runc - this stands for "run configuration" and should be used to set up a config for your web server. The parameters for the configuration script are here: /i - "initialize the IIS application" and will parse the config template /stop - stop the web server /create - will create a new configuration and run the config script A Config of IIS is just a template that contains your parameters. They will be filled by the script. After the successful creation of a config, you can start the web server by using run The "server config" resides in the Apache installation and is located in %IIS_SITE%\config\schema\apache_handler.config. Casio FD-32F The Casio FD-32F () is a digital radio receiver designed by Casio, released in Japan in 1982.
